Hello Jane,
It's great to hear from you and I hope this email finds you well. I'm getting back to you about your plan to visit a Moroccan city and I'd like to suggest Marrakech to you.
You should visit Marrakech for numerous reasons. First, it's one of the most beautiful cities in Morocco and it's located in the south. Second, it's home to many old mosques, fascinating palaces, and charming gardens. Marrakech is particularly famous for its large traditional markets and a place called Jemaa el-Fnaa, a charming destination for magicians, storytellers, dancers, water sellers, snake charmers, and visitors from all the walks of life. Third, the people in Marrakech are sociable, friendly, and welcoming. They speak Moroccan Arabic and French. Many, there, speak Tamazight as well. Fourth, the food in Marrakech is diverse and very tasty. You should try tanjia. It's a very popular local dish. Actually, the best places to visit while in Marrakech are: the Koutoubia Mosque, the Menara gardens, the Museum of Islamic Art, and riads. You can do many other fun things. For example, you can ride a camel, go hiking, shop for handcrafts and souvenirs, and learn a lot about local culture. The weather in Marrakesh is usually warm. Moreover, the city has many interesting geographic destinations, like Mount Toubkal, the Atlas Mountains, Oukaimeden Valley, and the Ouzoud Falls. That's all for now!
I look forward to hearing from you and please don't hesitate to contact me if you need any further information.
Best regards,
Tariq
